Today we meet, my baby bride and I

Well, father, is there new for me at last?

So this is Castle Hildebrand

Am I not the worst of Nature's blunders?

Toward the Emphyrean heights

You should read Anacreon

Double perambulator – shameless girl!

Attend, while I unfold a parable

Then jump for joy and gaily bound

Please you, that's the kind of maid sets my heart a-flame-a

Walls and fences scaling, promptly we appear

Since you enquire, we've no desire to beard a maiden here or anywhere

Their banners all on outer wall they fearlessly unfurl

Death to the invader

Thus our courage all untarnished we're instructed to display

My sword was but a lath

So off goes that cuirass

With joy abiding
